Heathorne Tells of the Invasion

By IRENE ALEXANDER

"Hi! What's Fish and Game doing out here?"

Unmistakably a Carmel voice—that of Cadet Engineer Allan Wood, U.S.N.R. It sounded pretty good to former Forester George Heathorne, now navigator with the U. S. Merchant Marine, ten months and a good many thousands of miles from home when he heard it on a certain hot day of last July, in a little cafe in Alexandria, Egypt.

As it turned out, George Heathorne and Allan Wood had been doing precisely the same thing on the fateful early dawn of July 10—transporting men, munitions and supplies for the British Eighth Army invasion of Sicily. After 72 hours of gruelling experience amid dropping bombs at Avola Beach, six miles south of Siracusa, both men were back in port, ready to embark for home on a long-promised furlough.

Second Officer Heathorne's return to Carmel, where he is spending his leave until November 1 with his mother, Mrs. W. E. Heathorne, follows by a scant two weeks the homecoming of Cadet Wood.

The story of those never-to-be-forgotten 72 hours has already been given in Allan Wood's eyewitness report published in the September 17 issue of the Pine Cone Cymbal, a story of troops and equipment grimly and steadily piling up on the beach under an umbrella of interceptor planes, of aerial dog-fights high overhead, of enemy bombers breaking through to drop their deadly cargoes on the invading fleet.

Frederic W. Burt

In bidding farewell, companion of many years—memories, memories—how they crowd the player's twilight.

We know of no tribute more worthy than when of the mimic world you were a true artist and in life a manly and loyal soul.

May the blissful song of rest greet the final call.

George F. Marion.

Memorial services will be held today at 2 p.m. in the Church of the Wayfarer for Carmel's much loved Frederic W. Burt, whose death occurred on Saturday morning, October 2, at 29 Palms.

Fred Bechdolt, long a close friend of Frederic Burt, will be in charge of the ceremonies.

Born in Onarga, Illinois, Frederic Burt graduated from the University of Nebraska and at the turn of the century was already embarked upon a distinguished career in the theater, his versatility of talent bringing him outstanding roles both as leading man and character actor. In the course of this career he played leads opposite such stars as Julia Marlowe, Virginia Harned, Minnie Maddern Fiske, Lenore Ulric, Frances Starr, Jane Cowl, Florence Reed and the late Helen Ware, who became Mrs. Frederic Burt. He was a member of Henry Miller's com-

Paul Mays' modernly poetic reminiscence of Paris which he calls "Nostalgic"—but which is "The Last Time I Saw Paris" to many of us—was won by Elizabeth Houghton at the recent Carmel Art Institute Benefit. Painted in Paris in 1926 this corner of the Boul' Mont Parnasse—near the Latin quarter—has always been one of Mr. Mays' favorite water colors.

"Something Like Mission to Moscow" Paul Mays Characterizes Trek to Swedenborgian Cathedral Town

By ELEANOR MINTON JAMES

"Bryn Athyn — why it's even quieter than Carmel!" was how Paul Mays described the pastoral Swedenborgian community that his wife and he plan to visit. Mr. Mays was more inclined to speak affectionately of Bryn Athyn than give any detailed outline of his own intentions in the artistic line during the eastern trip they start on tomorrow, after closing their Hatton Fields house and storing their car at the garage of a Carmel Valley friend.

Though he did say, parenthetically, that he is going to have a one man show in Pittsburgh—and possibly others.

"Something like a Mission to Moscow, too," said Paul Mays, getting back to Bryn Athyn, "for we haven't been east since long before the war, something like seven years I think."

Bryn Athyn, just outside the suburbs of Philadelphia, is Mrs. Mays' home. Here she will visit her mother and sister. Her grandfather, Dr. Pendleton, a bishop, was among the founders of this little Swedenborgian settlement, famous for its extraordinary Gothic cathedral where every ecclesiastical door handle is sculptured in a different design. The Mays were delighted to find the other day that Alec Miller of Carmel, interviewed for last week's Pine Cone-Cymbal, was one of the sculptors who worked on this church.

It was John Pitcairn who originally donated large sums of money to the founding of Bryn Athyn. Andrew Carnegie, also a Swedenborgian, was among the founders. The cathedral, designed by the Boston architect Cran, is a superb example of Gothic architecture based on the style of the fourteenth century.

The equally important Bryn Athyn art museum—with which

Brig. General Doe Receives Service Cross from MacArthur

Brigadier General Jens A. Doe of Carmel, according to word received this week, has been awarded the Distinguished Service Cross and the Oak Leaf Cluster by General Douglas MacArthur, commander-in-chief, Southwest Pacific Area, for "extraordinary heroism in action."

Brigadier General Doe led an infantry regiment in wiping out the remaining points of enemy resistance near Sanananda, New Guinea on the 21 and 22 of last January. According to the general headquarters release, he "distinguished himself by his coolness and gallantry under fire. In the reduction of those strongly fortified areas, his outstanding leadership and courageous conduct were a continuous inspiration to his troops. Brig. General Doe's presence in action."

To The Fire Department

Thank you for letting us come to see the fire station. Also we appreciate your telling us about how to prevent fires and letting us ring the bell on the truck. The trip back in the "clean-up" was loads of fun.

Thank you again.—Jan Van Niel, Sunset School.

"Little Women" Obscene, New Law Assumes

By WILMA COOK

Judging by the symptoms displayed at Wednesday night's meeting, it would appear that Carmel's city council is suffering from a slight touch of atavism, a reversion to the "good old days" when the Village was wacky, everybody knew it and nobody cared. Or perhaps the lunar influence is making itself felt. In that

Taxi Trouble Looms at City Council Meeting

Taxi trouble developed at the City Council meeting Wednesday night when it was found two Carmel operators, Joe Oliveras and A. B. Gibson were applying for permission to park their cabs in the same spot on the west side of Dolores between Ocean and Sixth.

Both applicants appeared to urge their cases. Oliveras contending that the parking space should be his on the grounds that it is in front of the former office of the Greyhound Taxi Depot, a premises he had rented. Gibson said he hadn't been aware that Oliveras had rented the building and had intended to rent it himself.

Oliveras also asked for a permit to park cabs on the east side of Dolores at Sixth and at the south side of Sixth at Dolores.

When City Clerk Peter Mawdsley reported that the Greyhound Taxi depot had applied for permission to transfer their business license to Ray Lucido of Monterey, creating the possibility that there would be still another taxi operator asking for a parking spot on Dolores street, the City Council postponed acting on all the taxi requests until the special meeting next Thursday at 5:30 o'clock.

The mayor reported that he and City Attorney Peter Ferrante had talked with Ozelia Rach-Wolska, fortune teller, and she had promised to refrain from telling fortunes in the patio of the building where she plans to set up her fortune telling stand, would not display signs of palms, and would not decorate the place with conspicuous Coney Island fortune telling booth trappings. The council then granted her application for a fortune telling license.

City Attorney Peter Ferrante asked to substitute in the penalty clause of the proposed obscenity ordinance a penalty of $50 instead of $300, and the council voted to accept the change.

On the suggestion of Councilman Fred Mylar the council instructed City Clerk Peter Mawdsley to address a letter of thanks to Fire Marshall Bob Leidig for his excellent work in instructing the school children in fire prevention during fire prevention week.

CORNWALLS LEAVING

Mr. and Mrs. Carol Cornwall are leaving Carmel to go into business for themselves in San Francisco where they have purchased a drug store business. Cornwall has been employed for some time at Stanford's Drug Store and Mrs. Cornwall is owner of Juney Lee's Dress Shop.

case, consider what will happen when the council meets again next Thursday and the moon is full! From all present indications Carmel's astute lawmakers will then give a second reading to the obscenity ordinance which had its first reading again after a slight revision at Wednesday's meeting, and will pass it as it now stands.

Whereupon, those of us in Carmel with a streak of the pixie in us will be vastly entertained, and those of us who revere the law will be shocked, pained and saddened, and will go around asking, "How can the citizens be made to respect the dignity of the law when an ordinance such as this is seriously and solemnly incorporated into the corpus juris of a seemingly sane community."

The Pine Cone Cymbal is not taking issue with AN obscenity ordinance. It is simply complaining that THIS obscenity ordinance is too funny to be useful or effective. We thought so when we heard it read two meetings ago when City Attorney Peter Ferrante laid it daintily in the lap of the city council. We thought so later that same night when we read it over in the undistracting quiet of our editorial office long after the staff had gone home. The attorney to whom we took it the next day read it over carefully, and after he got through laughing, concurred with us. It is a very funny ordinance because.

According to the way the law is written, Carmel librarian, Miss Libby Niles, is not only liable to arrest for allowing Louisa May Alcott's Little Women to circulate, but it would be up to her to prove in court that Little Women is not obscene.

Will Dog Owner Please Help So Child Won't Suffer

Will the owner of the brown and black wire haired terrier with a red collar, tied by a leash at the Standard Service Station at 4 p.m., October 5, please report to the Carmel police department.

The dog bit the son of John Gibbs, of Hatton Fields, and unless the animal can be put under observation to determine whether or not it is rabid, the child will have to undergo painful Pasteur treatments — possibly unnecessarily.

So far, the police have been unable to find the dog. The parents of the child have asked the Pine Cone Cymbal to appeal to the owner of the dog to come forward. Under the circumstances, the Pine Cone Cymbal promises to refrain from publishing the owner's name when he reports to the police since possibility of publicity might be acting as a deterrent.—W. C.

One Week Left to Mail Christmas Gifts Overseas

Assistant Postmaster Fred Mylar issued a reminder yesterday that after October 15 those wishing to send Christmas gifts by parcel post to Army men and women overseas can not do so unless a written request from the soldier for the article is presented with each parcel at time of mailing.

As no soldier should have to ask for his Christmas gift, Mylar urged that Christmas mailing be done in the one week remaining before the 15th.

The parcel must not exceed five pounds, and must not be more than 15 inches in length or 36 inches in length and girth combined. It should be marked "Christmas parcel" so that it may be given special attention to assure its arrival before December 25.

Not more than one parcel may be mailed in any one week to the same member of the armed forces by or in behalf of the same mailer.

The parcel must be well and strongly packed, in a container of metal, wood, strong fiber board, or similar material, then wrapped in strong paper and tied with twine. The cover should be such that it can be opened readily for censorship. The contents should be packed tightly.

Perishable goods, such as fruits that may spoil, are prohibited. Inflammable materials such as matches or lighter fluids, poisons, and anything that may damage other mail also are prohibited. Gifts enclosed in glass should be substantially packed to avoid breakage. Sharp instruments, such as razors and knives, must have their edges and points protected so that they cannot cut through the coverings and injure postal personnel or damage other packages.

Since the armed forces are being plentifully supplied with food and clothing, the Army and Navy recommend against these as gifts.

Addresses must be written clearly and completely. In addition to the return address of the sender, a parcel for an army man should show the name, rank, Army serial number, branch of service, organization, Army post office number, and name of post office through which the parcel is routed. A typical address for an Army man:

Pvt. John R. Doe (serial no.)
Company F, 167th Infantry
A.P.O. 810, %Postmaster
New York, N.Y.

The address on a parcel for a Navy man should include the name and rank or rating of the addressee, the Naval unit to which he is assigned and the Navy number. (Continued on page 11)

AAUW Make Plans For Interesting Season of Study

The book section of the American Association of University Women, Monterey Peninsula branch, will meet Tuesday evening, October 12, in Pacific Grove. Mrs. Elizabeth Hill is chairman. The full meeting of the branch, held the last of the month, will be devoted to international relations, with Mrs. G. M. Beall as chairman; the meeting for November will concern some social problem, such as race relations; the one for December will probably have a Christmas program. Theme for the year is "Preparation for Peace."

Mrs. John Gratiot is chairman of the social studies section, which will have charge of the November program. Mrs. Blanchard Steeves is chairman of the legislative committee. Mrs. Elizabeth Durein is membership chairman and Mrs. Katherine Ward is in charge of the educational committee.

At the September meeting Miss Katharine Van Horne, who leads the fellowship committee, reported on the work of that department. The national A.A.U.W. maintains fellowship raised by the branches throughout the United States to enable women members to carry on advanced study and research that will benefit humanity. Originally such study was carried on in European centers, but since the war broke out it has been confined to this country. A part of the dues of each member of the association goes into this fund. The society has also a scholarship loan fund to assist girls to continue their education beyond high school or junior college.

Mrs. Mary Louise Davis, hostess chairman, explained the difficulties of scheduling meetings by day when many members are engaged in work or activities growing out of the war, and within reach of all, hampered as they are by gasoline rationing. However, these restrictions will be overcome so far as possible, and special interests of the members will be considered in the program arranged. — L.L.T.

Stoddard Likes Navy But Misses Carmel

Gordon Stoddard, former Carmel high school student, now in the Navy, wrote home in a letter recently:

"I don't think I would give up my uniform for civies until after the war. It makes me proud that I am really a U. S. citizen doing my best. Still, I wish this mess was over with, and gee, mom, it would be good to go down to Carmel with you and see all my friends."

Red Cross

By MRS. FRANCES DOUD

The following articles are now on request with the American Red Cross Mission Trails Camp and Hospital Council, and people having things they wish to contribute may take them to their nearest Red Cross chapter house—in Carmel on Dolores street near 8th; in Monterey on Washington street next to the Herald office; and in Pacific Grove at St. Mary's Parish house.

For Fort Ord Station Hospital: a piano; stringed or wind instruments of all kinds (guitars are particularly popular); small pieces of thin silk, georgette or crepe, to make into lavender sachets, also matching scraps of ribbons to tie them. Old celluloid toothbrush handles (for making rings and buttons); yarn scraps of wool, cotton and silk; thin linoleum, plain white or colored, to make table mats, this must be at least 12" by 18". Also linoleum scraps for block printing, which must be at least ¼ inch thick. Unbleached muslin, large enough to make aprons and block-printed table mats. Radios, phonographs or combinations, preferably the smaller sizes. Records, both classical and popular music. Picture frames, approximately 12" by 18", for framing pictures painted by the patients, glasses not necessary. Good water color paints not being used. Small pine cones. Old suitcases, to be given to patients being discharged. The Station Hospital has an adequate supply of magazines and puzzles on hand and a limited amount of storage space, and they have no need to collect more at this time.

For Presidio of Monterey: Items desired for Armored Corps Day Room: 8 floor lamps, 2 felt top pool tables, 25 shades, 4½ by 2½ ft.; 3 tables, 8 by 3 or 4 ft., 10 writing desks; book racks; three—5 by 1 ft., eight 3 by 1 ft.; 5 large couches, 9 overstuffed chairs, 10 inkwell and writing stands; 1 large radio, 1 small radio, 25 window curtains 4½ by 2½ ft. Five large paintings, 10 small paintings or pictures; 6 pool cues; 1 set pool balls.

HAVE YOU A CHAIR?

The AWVS was the recipient this week of a very urgent appeal on behalf of soldiers at the Monterey Presidio who have to sit about on boxes during the free moments when they seek relaxation in the day room provided for them. If somewhere in Carmel there are a few comfortable chairs, a day-enport, some pictures and curtains not in use, their owners can call Mrs. Rama Stearns, Carmel 1504, and the articles will be picked up very gratefully.

Open House for Columbus Day P.T.A. Meeting

The first general meeting of the Carmel Parent Teachers association will be held October 12, at 3 p.m. At this time all parents are invited to attend the open house at Sunset School. Parents are requested to meet in their child's classroom where they will have the opportunity not only to know the teacher but to meet the parents of their child's friends. The teachers will explain the principal objectives of their class for the year, describe school life at each grade level, and explain the new report card to be used this year. A party will be given as a prize to the class having the largest attendance of parents.

During the summer many improvements have been made in the school buildings and for this meeting all rooms will be open for inspection. These improvements should be of interest to every parent as they contribute greatly to the physical and mental well being of each pupil. Tea will be served at three-thirty in the school library.

Wednesday, September 29, Mrs. Robert Stanton, president of Carmel Parent Teachers association, called a meeting of the new executive board. At this time the program for the coming year was discussed. The members of the new board are, in addition to Mrs. Stanton, Mrs. L. C. McGarr, vice-president; Mrs. M. C. Walter, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Anna Kohner, recording secretary; Mrs. G. H. Burnette, treasurer; Mrs. Edna Herlofson, program chairman; Mrs. B. H. Cory, publicity chairman; Mrs. L. L. Dewar, membership chairman; Mrs. J. H. Clark, health and welfare chairman; Mrs. Cedric Rowntree, hospitality chairman; Mrs. B. F. Sowell, magazine chairman; and Mrs. Horace Dormody, school board representative.

Those who have not yet had an opportunity to join the Parent Teachers association may do so at this first meeting, October 12. The yearly dues are fifty cents, and as Mrs. Herlofson has many stimulating programs of great interest to parents, lined up for the coming meetings, it will be well worthwhile.

DANCE CLASSES RESUME

The Friday evening ballroom classes for seventh and eighth graders begin again on October 8 at June Delight's studio on Mission street between 4th and 5th, with beginners assembling from 7 to 8:30 and those more versed in the waltz, the tango and the rhumba gathering between 8 and 9:30.

Martin Flavin Wins Harper's $10,000 Fiction Award

Though known best as a dramatist, Martin Flavin of Carmel Highlands, received top honors as a novelist last week when Harper Brothers announced him the winner of their $10,000 biennial prize for his novel "Journey in the Dark."

Flavin's novel was chosen out of over 600 entries by a jury made up of Irita Van Doren, Bernard De Voto and Clifton Fadiman.

"Journey in the Dark" follows "Mr. Littlejohn" and "Corporal Cat," philosophical novels Flavin wrote after he had achieved success as a playwright, who at one time enjoyed the unique experience of having three plays running simultaneously on Broadway.

He is at present resting at his ranch in the Cachagua, up Carmel Valley.

CARMEL PREVAILS

The lure of Carmel proved too strong for Miss Martha Bullitt, who decided this week to postpone completion of her college course and return. She and Miss Zoe Kernick have taken a studio for the coming months on Palos street in north Carmel.

MONTH'S FIRST BABY

He arrived at the Community Hospital on October 1, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clark of Carmel.

Heathorne Tells Of Invasion

out of the whole invasion force," said George Heathorne proudly. Then he added with tightening lip: "One was enough to see, though."

He was below deck when the warning sound came the terrific roar of a Stuka diving. Then, seconds later, a deafening explosion. At first he thought, "This is it—they got us this time," remembering the cargo of explosives which made every vessel a potential volcano.

But the direct hit had been scored on a ship just 400 yards away. She burst into flames, sending up Roman candles of tracer bullets and showering the sea with debris.

"A great hunk of steel, weighing two hundred and thirty-nine pounds, lit on our forward deck—all rolled up like a jelly roll by the explosion. A three-hundred pound truck wheel landed aft. And our ship rocked and shivered till you'd think nothing could hold together."

Only one man, a navy armed guard, survived out of the bombed ship's complement of British soldiers, navy armed guards and merchant crew.

Service with the U. S. Merchant Marine is no new story for Second Officer Heathorne. A veteran of World War I, he made the sea his home from 1914 to 1930, when he came ashore to join the California State Division of Forestry for a number of years. During this time, he spent many months in Carmel, staying in the Heathorne home, Cheerio, on Carmel Point, and making many friends on the Peninsula. For about ten months, in 1941-42, he served as principal guard at Fort Ord, leaving that post in September, 1942, to rejoin the U. S. Merchant Marine.

His first trip was north to Bering Sea, in troop transport service; then on to New Zealand, thence to Aden Arabia, Port Said, Alexandria and Haifa. From Haifa he had an opportunity to visit Jerusalem and Tel-Aviv, which he describes as one of the most modern and beautiful cities in the world, with broad streets, streamlined apartments and public buildings, up-to-date hotels and night clubs with floor shows which rival those of New York.

But it was Malta, to which he made three trips in the course of his Mediterranean service, that most deeply impressed George Heathorne. On this tiny, much-battered island, he explored the bomb shelters, hundreds of feet below the solid rock, in which the population of 227,000 have found so complete a refuge that in spite of countless raids, only one thousand casualties have resulted.

The section about the harbor has been completely flattened by continual raids, and the harbor itself is the graveyard of many ships. In Valletta Malta the residential district has been a target again and again, until most of the great buildings—hospitals and churches, have been leveled. But the morale of the inhabitants is invincible. When the governor's palace was razed by a land mine, the Maltese, for the most part ardent Roman Catholics, scribbled in large letters on walls all over the city the grim warning: "Rome must be bombed now!"

On the occasion of George Heathorne's first trip to the little island, he was struck by the appearance of its inhabitants who lined the walls, cheering the oncoming ships. All betrayed shockingly the privations they had endured; undernourishment was evident in hollow cheeks and emaciated bodies. Whatever they had, however, was offered without stint to the allied visitors. Food there was none, every article being rationed. Neither hotels nor restaurants were open on the island; hospitality had to be confined to showing the guests about.

Everywhere in the Mediterranean theater George Heathorne found a harmonious cooperation prevailing between the allied soldiers and seamen—an attitude during action quite untinged by the jealousies and bickerings and suspicions which sometimes find expression among the civilian population. His own experience convinced him that everything is being done to make it pleasant for Americans in the territories under British domination.

On his third and last trip to Malta he noted with satisfaction a vast improvement in the physical condition of the Maltese. Their food rations had been increased. Their hopes had been strengthened.

In Tripoli, to which he made two excursions, he found beautiful, large olive groves, an advanced agriculture, and a population highly elated at being freed from the Italian yoke.

"Sure I'm going back," says George with a shrug. "Only complaint I've got is that mail from home gets held up. Boy! What it means to get letters!"

Frederic Burt

pany and starred on Broadway in Mongolia.

He had a home for many years in Provincetown, where he was a neighbor and close friend of Eugene O'Neill and aided in the organization of the famous Provincetown Players, appearing in their productions there and later in New York.

Both Frederic Burt and Helen Ware brought their distinctive gifts of fine diction and finished acting to a number of Hollywood films. Many will remember his performance in Eyes of the World, Shadow of the Law, Down to Rio, The Queen's Husband and The Cisco Kid.

Following his retirement from the stage, he found expression for his gifts as a painter and sculptor in the founding of an art school in New York, dedicated to the idealistic and democratic principle of providing a place for young artists to come and work freely, with an opportunity to meet established painters, exchange stimulating ideas and receive criticism, a project which presently overflowed into a six-story building and was only terminated by World War I.

In 1936 Frederic Burt and Helen Ware came to make their home in Carmel, contributing a full and rich share to its cultural life. He directed plays, took part in many, among them the well-remembered Mission Play by George Marion, between whom and Frederic Burt there existed a warm and lasting friendship. His spirited pen contributed many a pungent criticism of art and drama to the local press.

It was the gift of $100 by Frederic Burt and Helen Ware which six years ago launched the building of the large north room of the Carmel art association gallery on Dolores street, a gift dedicated to fostering of greater democratic fellowship among the young artists of the community and those already established. For many years he was secretary of the art association, and until a year ago, when failing health interrupted his unselfish activities, he was a member of its board of directors and a frequent exhibitor.

Keen of wit, scholarly and philosophical, Frederic Burt was possessed, too, of a gentle and kindly humanity, a warm gift of friendship. His influence touched many lives. He will be remembered always by the many who came to know and value him.

He is survived by a brother, Maurice K. Burt, of St. Edwards, Nebraska, a sister, Mrs. Grace Burt Griffin, of Lakemore, Ohio, and a niece, Mrs. Anne Burt Goff of Beverly Hills.

HEATHORNE GUEST SPEAKER

The Carmel Lions Club had an eye-witness account of the invasion of Sicily at its meeting Monday evening at the Pine Inn when George Heathorne, home on leave told of his experiences as a merchant marine on an American cargo vessel supplying the British Eighth Army on its landing operations off Southeastern Sicily.

Guest at the meeting was Charles Sayre.

Red Eagle Gives Farewell Performance At Barn Door Show

Sunday Red Eagle left Carmel to make his home in Los Banos. But before he left, he gave one more of his famous roping performances, a routine that thrilled thousands in years past when he toured with Buffalo Bill, here and in Europe.

The audience was a group of appreciative service men, hostesses and a collection of angels at the Carmel USO house Saturday evening. And Carlos Dieguez was the victim Red Eagle captured and bound up by a complicated and skillful handling of the lariat.

Other numbers on the program were: Carol Forsberg, a waltz clog; Carlos Dieguez, Guatemalan songs; Ray Ross, spoon rhythms; Billie Pat Torras, Ladisla Narvaz, southern dance; Gladys Young, songs; Billie Pat Torras, tap dance; Gordon Ayers, monologues; George Miller, piano selection. Lee Crowe and Mrs. James Cooke served as masters of ceremony. Jim Cooke worked the slides for the community sing.

Alexander, Anderson Please Audience..at MAC Recital Sunday

By ELSA C. WOOLAMS

The first program of the fall season of the Musical Art Club of Carmel was given in the auditorium of the Carmel high school Sunday afternoon, October 3, with David Marrs introducing the artists to the sizeable audience.

The three performing artists were Edith Anderson, soprano; Gladys Steele, accompanist; and Nicolai Alexander, baritone.

Miss Anderson presented selections from opera and lieder, the operatic arias being "Porgi Amore" from the marriage of Figaro by Mozart, and "Dich Teure Halle" from Tannhauser by Wagner. The songs consisted of numbers by Bach, Handel, Henschel, Rachmaninoff, Hageman, Rommel and Wells.

Edith Anderson has a soprano voice of pure quality and good range, which lent itself well to the rendition of the operatic arias, "Dich Teure Halle," being by far the best sung of her vocal selections.

Nicolai Alexander possesses a beautiful baritone voice, typically Russian in timbre and interpretation, and he is a fine artist who should be heard in a concert of his own, as he has much to give. A great deal of credit is due to the excellent coaching of Gladys Steele, that fine artist and accompanist from San Francisco, and this reviewer feels that the two as a team should be a great success and enthusiastically received wherever they are heard, which certainly was the case this afternoon.

Mr. Alexander's program was well chosen and included "Over the Steppe" by Gretchaninoff and a Russian folk-song by Cesar Cui, both sung in Russian; "Passing By," a later composition by the English composer Purcell, "O Men from the Fields" by Herbert Hughes, "Journey's End," a negro spiritual by Fay Koster, and "Stouthearted Men" from "New

I CALL ON HOR-EM-HEB

Julian de Cordova is 93 years old. He lives at La Playa hotel waiting for the war to end so he can resume his restless traveling around the world, a habit well established before he had reached his majority. And while he waits by his sunny windows watching the sea make a white border along the foot of Point Lobos, he hears that the British and Americans have driven the invader out of Africa just as Hor-em-Heb, the great king, drove the invader from Egypt many hundred years before Christ, and he is reminded of how on one of his frequent trips to Egypt he paid a visit to the tomb of Hor-em-Heb. The following article is Mr. de Cordova's account of that eerie call upon a long-dead monarch.

By JULIAN DE CORDOVA

This is the tomb of Hor-em-Heb. Hor-em-Heb was one of the great men of Egyptian history. Egypt was under the domination of a foreign race called the Hyksos or Shepherd Kings—presumably they came from the adjoining deserts. Hor-em-Heb organized resistance and finally drove them out. It is not permitted to everybody to inspect this tomb on account of the dangers attending thereto, and I was obliged to go to the Superintendent of Monuments and get a special permit, and I had to sign a document releasing them from any responsibility in case of accident.

I next proceeded to the Bab-el-Moluk; this is a defile exceedingly narrow, winding through and over-topping hills of sandstone. For several miles one proceeds through arid wastes—not a shrub, not a twig, nothing but rock, sand, and again sand. The defile which finally ends in a perpendicular rock a thousand feet high was selected as the best place for concealment of the bodies of the dead monarchs, for at all epochs the tombs of the kings have been despoiled by robbers for the sake of the treasures buried with them. In formation the tombs are long galleries varying from 300 to 700 feet in length, about ten feet wide, twelve feet high, and tunneled through the solid limestone.

I sought out the guardian and explained that I wished to visit the tomb of Hor-em-Heb. He emphatically assured me that no one was allowed to visit that tomb; he said it was too dangerous for anybody to think of it . . . whereupon I produced my authority, and he said, "Very well, I'll undo the door but I won't go in with you."

So I said, "Go and get your candles, for there is no light in these dark caverns," and I produced from my pockets two good-sized paraffine candles. He, having got some smaller ones, conducted me by tortuous paths to the face of the cliff and halted before the iron grill, holding out to me these two little candles. Thereupon I produced a lot of silver, and showing him this silver I promised I would give him all that, provided he would go in with me.

He shook his head very dubiously, but in the end he acted like a white man; he yielded to temptation, but the look upon his face was that of a man caught in sudden death. We passed beyond the grill and closed the iron door behind us. 'All was gloom—funereal darkness. We lighted our candles, and I could faintly make out a series of broken stone steps ever-descending-and-descending at an intense angle. They were so broken that one minute you were on a step and the next minute on sliding sand, and with every step you took the gloom seemed to be a bit thicker. I held on to his gabardine and he held on to my coat, and we slid and stumbled down this incline 'til we came to a sort of flat landing place.

We held up our candles to observe the decorations of the walls as we passed by, and we faintly made out a mass of hieroglyphics—evidently texts from the Book of the Dead.

POETRY

CARMEL MORNING

Carmel was never quite so beautiful.
The morning fog and sun had scrubbed its face
Until it shone—the sleek green pines—
Each hair in place.

Ocean Avenue,

Lying flat to the water's edge, raised
To drink of jade-green waters, spraying mist
Upon its face. The white sand
Was delicately traced by tractor feet
Of busy sand-crabs—prospectors of the beach—
And myriads of curving penciled lines
That climbed the slopes. Here and there
Paisley-remnants of abalone shells
Were rudely tossed upon the shore.

Carmel

Stood with open arms, taking to its heart
The homing waves.
Insistent waters, trickling through reef-fingers,
Raised their voices to indifferent rocks
That year by year answered them with silence.
Iris-depths looked upon the cypress—
Carmel was never quite so beautiful,
The morning fashioning of it a jewel
With a clear, sharp beauty all its own.

CYCLE

For Ninion Eberman:

a pioneer to the Oregon Coast in 1843.

Yes, I too
Journey to an alien shore . . .

One century separates our hands, yet not our hearts—
yet, were you stronger?
You and your wife standing on the bleak land, on the bleak
Cliff, watching the wide sea—did you feel fear? I think not.

Yet I, I a crier at mid-night, a voice in the wind: I,
your grand-child
Fear for the future, feeling uncertain, feeling unworthy
Of you or your blood.

Yet might I say simply, personally now:
the age has hurt me: the blood has turned water:
The gods are to blame: sufficient for the dulled eyes that read this,
Yet not quite sufficient.

Oh where are my banners that I might blow them into the wind for no reason,
Save that I live and the sun is my love; the wide wind, my voice.
Be with me, parents, I am not strong—Still I will sing
for awhile under the torn sky,
Until I am silenced.

—WILLIS EBERMAN.

REVIEWS

Twining in and out of them were the coils of a huge serpent that wound its length along from the entrance to where we now were in huge bends and twists. The body of the serpent was bright yellow with black stripes, and from his head protruded immense eyes and long forked tongue. Lowering our candles we saw we had come to a place where the former steps were no more. So the guide sat down and I lowered myself by means of his legs, dropped the remaining distance to the next ramp, and after aiding him to descend, we proceeded again, slipping and slipping further into the bowels of the earth.

About fifty feet from where we landed we came to a sudden halt. The guide exclaimed excitedly, "Take care, take care!" Right in front of us dawned an opening across which extended two narrow wooden planks. I couldn't see the guide's face—I could feel him shake. Dropping upon my hands and knees I straddled these planks and worked myself along. I was over the mummy pit, the shaft down which it was usual to lower the body into a funeral chamber some 80 to 100 feet below. I lighted a couple of matches and let them sink into this gloom. They seemed to go down and down and everlastingly down, and as they went out, they only seemed to make the darkness more profound. These pits were evidently constructed with the idea that any robbers entering would be deterred from any further search.

I worked myself over to the other side, not daring to stand up, and the guardian followed my example, but I could hear his teeth chattering all the time. Once over, we encountered the same steep declining staircase, but in better condition. Further down we came to a great hollowed-out chamber about 30 feet long and 20 feet wide, and there, in this pit, I faintly made out the magnificent pink limestone sarcophagus of Hor-em-Heb. Reverently I looked at the engraved texts sculptured into the stone: his name, his honors, and his establishment and descent from the gods. I peered over the uncovered edge (for the lid had never been put on but rested in another part of the room) and I looked at all that was left of a man who had once been able to lead thousands of men to battle, who had had brain enough to bring order out of chaos and to establish a kingdom that lasted in the plenitude of power for over 700 years in undiminished glory, but all I saw was a few moulding broken bones.

I put my hand into that tomb and took up and put into my pocket a small piece of him in memory of him who had once been so great, and when one looks upon this small piece one can well realize how vain is all the pomp and majesty of this world's greatness.

We returned the way we came, and I was glad when I again saw the light of day. But I felt that this belief in a future, which in that earlier age was so imbued in the soul of that early religion that he wished his body to be kept ready for the spirit of the resurrection to again animate him, was a good presentiment of the same spirit that enhances the Christian faith of today.

MAXIMS OF KAQEMNA & PTAH-HETEP
(From the Prisse Papyrus)

If thou hast become a leader to direct the welfare of the multitude follow thou always a gracious bearing, so that thy behavior may be without harshness in it. If Plough-land is thine, gather in the field what God hath given thee. If thou wouldst be a man perfect, make thy son to please God. If he directeth straight his course according to thy example, and he dealeth in thy affairs in the way belonging thereto, do unto him everything good. If thou wouldst be perfect possess thou thy house, love thy wife without defect. Feed her, clothe her, anoint her, gladden her heart during the time of thy existence.

SUNSET SCHOOL NOTES

Sports

The whistle and then the kick-off! Intramural games for Sunset School for 1943, had gotten under way. The four teams under Mrs. Uzzell's direction played hard for 60 minutes. The results were: Dick Garguilo's "Morons" — 8, Charles Kane's "Avengers" — 0, Arthur Harber's "Zekes" — 12, Dick's Sumner's "Pennygrabbers" — 0.

On the physical education front, the "Dodgers" licked the "Bardoes", 6-0, to go into a tie for first place with the "Skunks", who were stalemated by the Yanks. — Billy Ford, Sports Editor.

Our Homemaking Class

When we first went to home-making this year we learned how to wash dishes if we didn't know yet. We are learning how to cook now. We are going to learn how to make puddings and other good things to eat. — Phyllis Rogers, Grade 6.

Jo-Jo

Jo-Jo is a cocoa squirrel. My daddy brought him from Trinidad. Daddy named him Jo-Jo because the little native boys call the American soldiers Jo.

Jo-Jo is dark brown. He eats almost everything.

He always travels in Daddy's pocket. — Ronny Smith, Grade 1.

We Almost Made It

We were the second highest room on Stamp Day.

We want to be a Victory room. If everyone of us buys a stamp next Stamp Day, we will be a Victory room.

We are going to try. — Chick Gilman, Grade 1.

Class Meeting

Mrs. Jordan's seventh grade held its first class meeting last Friday and elected the following officers: President — Billy Ford; vice president — Alan Schute; secretary — Au-Deane Shepherd; treasurer — Edward Seifert. — Au-Deane Shepherd, Grade 7.

Casualties

Three children in our class had black eyes last week. Pat Grimshaw was chasing a girl and got kicked in the eye. Oh, Pat! Newton Hilliard was down at the beach. He was playing with a board over a pit. A girl jumped on the board and it bounced back and hit him in the eye. Joann Murphy hit her eye on a corner of the door and that's the truth, too! — Bonnie Vandervort, Grade 2.

The Early Man

The early man was a simple person. He didn't have any clothes. He didn't have any language. His food was leaves from trees and roots. He had to kill animals with his bare hands for he didn't have any tools. If a great, big animal attacked him, he would use a sharp stick. As the years went by, he became smarter. He learned to chip stone and make tools and weapons. He learned to paint pictures on the walls of his cave. From these pictures and stone tools found in the caves, we have learned how he lived. — Mike Dormody, Grade 6.

Our Red Cross Work

Our Red Cross committee in our room has been collecting crossword puzzles. These puzzles will go to hospitals where soldiers are recovering from wounds. They will be pasted on cardboard so the soldiers can work them while in bed. We are also collecting Christmas gifts for the little British boys and girls who are not as lucky as we are. — Jim Steffens, Grade 5.

In social studies we are studying about the Soviet Union. Wednesday an extract from the book, "One World," by Wendell Willkie was read to us. The article told about life in Siberia. The thing that surprised me was that they have libraries and theaters. There were many other surprising facts, such as the rise in education since 1917. This shows that Siberia is not being neglected by the rest of the republic. — Sheila O'Brien, Grade 7.

22 Officers of Armored Corps Find Homes Here

Good will and cooperation of Carmel citizens have achieved the impossible. In a town where the "No Vacancies" signs have been ever-present in the past six months 22 officers of the Second Armored Corps, newly arrived at the Presidio, have found houses for their families in the past two weeks. About a dozen enlisted men have also been accommodated. In the three peninsula cities a total of 32 officers and 85 enlisted men have found housing.

There are still army families looking for a place to live, however, so that Carmel residents knowing of vacancies in furnished houses, apartments or housekeeping rooms are asked to phone Monterey Chamber of Commerce 8544 or the USO Travelers Aid, 4154.

Misses Family

Seaman second class Jackie Mayes, now stationed at Treasure Island, spent Sunday in Carmel, just missing a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mayes and his grandmother, Mrs. Jessie Graham, who went to San Francisco in the expectation of seeing him and his uncle, "Scotty" Graham.

Roberta Smith Revisits

Miss Roberta Smith, accompanied by Miss Dorothy Lake and Miss Ladene Cottle, both of San Francisco, is spending a week's holiday at Sutton Place, renewing old friendships made during the time she lived here and studied sculpturing with Finn Frolich.

Pfc. John Wood Home

With seven weeks' boot camp at San Diego behind him, Private first class John Wood arrived home last weekend, his friendly grin undiminished, to spend a ten days' furlough with his mother, Mrs. Helen Wood, before going on to Camp Pendleton and the second step in becoming a Raider with the U. S. Marines. Only 36 assignments were made to this particular branch of the service during his training period, and John considers himself very lucky to have been among those called. His elder brother, cadet engineer Allan Wood, U.S.N.R., is now completing his studies at King's Point, Long Island.

San Jose Visitors

Miss Eleanor Short, music supervisor of the San Jose schools, participant in many Carmel Back Festivals, and her friend, Mrs. Leah Graham Watts, also of San Jose, were weekend visitors, making their headquarters at Colonial Terrace.

Mr. and Mrs. Matthias Here

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Matthias left on Friday after a five day sojourn at the Highlands. They have been making their home at the Huntington Apartments in San Francisco during the past months, but expect to depart shortly for New York, where they plan to spend the winter.

Visiting Granddaughter

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Bullard of San Francisco arrived on Sunday for a visit with their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Cook and their granddaughter, Sunny.

Mrs. Heathorne Returns

Mrs. W. E. Heathorne returned on Tuesday of last week to spend the winter in Carmel and is staying at present in Colonial Terrace. During the past months she has been visiting with her daughter, Mrs. Frank Moller, in Piedmont. Arriving with her, on furlough from his duties with the U. S. Merchant Marine, is her son, Deck Officer George Heathorne.

Thirty-Hour Leave

Harvey Gardner, son of Mrs. F. E. Dowgiallo, was home last week end on a thirty hour leave from the Naval Air Base at Livermore, where he is receiving his Tarmac training.

Dwiggins Move to Pasadena

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Dwiggins and daughter, Diane are leaving Carmel to make their home in Pasadena where Mr. Dwiggins has been offered an excellent position in defense work. He left Sunday for the south, his wife and daughter to follow when he has found a house for them. Mr. Dwiggins' position as assistant manager of the Monterey County Trust and Savings Bank will be filled by Mr. Sam Coleman, who has been assistant manager at the King City branch of the bank for 20 years. The Dwiggins, who have lived here a number of years will be missed by the many friends they have made in Carmel.

Now Owns Rumble Seat

Miss Maurine Kennedy, formerly of Del Monte Lodge, has purchased Rumble Seat on Crespi Lane, and is busily engaged in re-decorating it and installing a rock garden.

Dance at Crespi Hall

The Army and Navy Ladies of Carmel Mission are making plans for another of their popular dances for the men of the armed forces. It will be held on the evening of Saturday, October 16, with the Del Monte Pre-Flight orchestra furnishing the music. Equally welcome guests at Crespi Hall are the uniformed men who come alone as those who attend as couples.

Mavis Miller to Wed

The engagement of Miss Mavis Miller of Washington, D. C., San Francisco and Carmel, daughter of Brig. Gen. L. A. Miller, U. S. Army and Bessie Boyd Fraser of Baltimore, Md. and Carmel, well-known artist and pianist, to Mr. Nicholas C. Dazzo was announced at a family gathering at the Miller-Fraser summer home in Santa Cruz on Sunday, October 3.

The bride-elect is the niece of Brig. Gen. L. R. Boyd, U. S. Army and Dr. and Mrs. T. B. W. Leland of San Francisco, and the granddaughter of the late Rev. Dr. Thomas Parker Boyd and Mrs. Boyd. She received her education at St. Katherine's School, Davenport, Iowa, Peabody Conservatory, Baltimore, Md., and Stanford University; has been actively engaged in radio work in Washington, D. C., and has been associated with the War Department on the East and Pacific Coasts for the past three years.

Mr. Dazzo is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dazzo of Trinidad, Colorado. He is a graduate of the University of Colorado Law School and a member of the American Bar Association.

Celebrate Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Clement celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Thursday, September 10, the occasion noted by their host of Carmel friends, whose flowers and greeting cards made festive the Clement home on San Carlos street. Present for the celebration were their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Leslie. A grandson, Lieutenant Edgar Leslie, is now in service with the U. S. Air Transport in India, and a great grandchild makes her home in Carmel with her mother, Mrs. Edgar Leslie, the former Miss Betty Bucklen.

Here from Indiana

Mrs. Charles L. Du Vault of Indiana is visiting Carmel at present, the house guest of Mrs. Robert Duncan in her home on Casanova street. Mr. Du Vault served for 25 years as United States consul in England, Japan, Mexico and in Paris. Now retired, he and Mrs. Du Vault plan within the year to make their permanent home in Carmel.

Donald Staniford Home

Second class Seaman Donald Staniford, U.S.N., arrived Saturday, on a fifteen-day leave, following his completion of two months' training at Farragut, Idaho, and after an eventful trip home. He arrived in Portland, after no sleep for two nights, too late to make his scheduled connections for Sacramento. Result—he raced to the airport and was lucky enough to hop a ride on a Liberator, according to Seaman Staniford, a most thrilling experience. On October 15 he reports back to Farragut for further orders.

Weekend Visitors

Mrs. Vivian McEwen and her sister, Mrs. Gladys Jones, both of San Francisco, spent the past weekend in Carmel, preparing their home on Carmelo for wartime occupants. They were house guests of Miss Dorothy Stephenson, who accompanied them back to San Francisco on Sunday for a two-day visit.

Off to Phoenix

Rev. and Mrs. Charles A. Dowdell and Timmie, the cocker spaniel, are leaving on Saturday for Phoenix, Arizona, after their customary summer sojourn in their Carmel home on Santa Fe. Dr. Dowdell is Canon of Trinity Cathedral in Phoenix.

Don Elias Graduates

Pfc. Donald J. Elias, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Elias, has just been graduated from the parent radio school of the Air Forces Technical Training Command at Scott Field, Illinois. He is now qualified for duty as a member of a fighting bomber crew. Since Scott Field, part of a vast network of Training Command schools, is devoted solely to radio, the destination of Pfc. Elias may be to a more advanced radio school or an operational training school, where he will receive instructions as part of a bombing "team."

Seven Candles on 7th

Children's joyous voices and the glimpse of many little figures flitting under the big tree and through the patio of Mrs. Don Wilson's home on Ocean Avenue on the afternoon of Thursday, September 7, betokened a very special event—the celebration of Donell Wilson's seventh birthday, with games, gaily decorated cake and all the trimmings. Present to share the festivities were Alice Ferrante, Joan and Paula Murphy, Clare and Judie Walters, Ronna Herlofson, Mary Louise and Rose Ann McGarr, Jimmie Clark, Harriette and Judith O'Rear, Richard Whitesides, Billy Powell, Paul Yementes, Bobby Michela, Vivian and Joan Peach, Ann and Barbara Pinkerton, Adrian Goldberg and Don Martin.

All Saints' Tea

A tea and organization meeting for young officers' wives will be held at 3 p.m., Thursday, October 14 at the Rectory of All Saints' on Randal Way and Allen Place. This will be the first meeting of the proposed organization, open to all young wives of Army and Navy officers now living on the Peninsula, regardless of their church affiliations. Activities will be discussed and plans made for a fall program. All interested may call Mrs. Wilfred Hodgkins, Carmel 2309J.

Wayfarer Auxiliary Meets

The Women's Auxiliary of the Church of the Wayfarer met on Tuesday afternoon, October 5, Mrs. Edith Anderson's singing, to the accompaniment of Mrs. Jerita Hanna, contributing much to the interest of the occasion.

John K. Chapel Speaks

About 80 members and friends of the Carmel Woman's club assembled to hear John K. Chapel speak at the meeting held Monday, October 4. The presence of many new members indicated the interest felt in the program for the coming year.

Mrs. Alton Walker, program chairman, introduced Mr. Chapel, who spoke of the many courtesies extended him during his visit and his appreciation of the beauties of Carmel.

The bridge section, held on the second and fourth Mondays of each month, will meet at Pine Inn on Monday, October 11 at 2 p.m. Members may use the Monte Verde street entrance.

To Honor Mr. and Mrs. Mays

A group of friends assembled last Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Baer to drink a farewell toast to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Mays, departing this week for the East. Among others present were Mrs. Redmond F. Kernan, her mother, Mrs. Dufour and sister, Miss Adrienne Dufour.

Pultizer-Wood Wedding Plans

Mrs. Walter Pultizer of Carmel and San Francisco is this week announcing the wedding plans of her daughter, Miss Barbara Pultizer, to Captain Robert Leaming Wood, Jr., U. S. Army, now stationed at Fort Ord.

The ceremony will take place at St. John's Chapel, Del Monte, on Monday, October 11, at 5 p.m., with Rev. Theodore Bell officiating, and members of the family and close friends attending.

The bride-to-be, daughter of the late Walter Pultizer and Mrs. Pultizer, attended St. Mary's Seminary, Buffalo, N. Y., studied for two years in Switzerland and did special work in English at the San Jose State College. She is the sister of Miss Muriel Pultizer, now studying with Jo Mora.

Captain Wood is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Wood of Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia. He is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, where he was affiliated with Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity.

Following the quiet ceremony and the wedding reception, the couple will honeymoon and make their home in the Carmel Woods house belonging to Mrs. Edith Elzalde.

Republican Women Meet

All Republican women are invited to meet at the Girl Scout House on Sixth and Lincoln streets between 1:20 and 3:15 p.m. on Thursday, October 14.

Coxswain Harbolt Home

Coxswain Adrian L. Harbolt arrived on Wednesday to spend a 30-day furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Harbolt, his sister, Mrs. Harry Leonard, and young niece, Sidney, in their Carmel home, after a fourteen-month stretch in the South Pacific. His brother, Staff Sergeant Thomas Harbolt of the U. S. Air Corps, is now stationed at Patterson Field, Ohio.

Yeoman Costa Home

Robert B. Costa, Yeoman (2nd class) of the personnel office, U.S.M.T.S., Farragut, Idaho, is now visiting his parents at their home on 10th and Mission. His father, Mr. A. J. Costa, is with the State Department of Public Health. Yeoman Costa is the grandson of Mrs. Carrie B. Main of Carmel.

The Misses Colvin Back

The Misses Katharine and Jessie Colvin returned last week to their sand dunes cottage after a two months' visit to their old home in Chicago.

Boy for Floanes

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Floane of Dolores street between 4th and 5th, became the parents of a baby boy on Saturday, October 2 at the Community Hospital.

Officer Jelich Buys Cigars

Master Edward Jelich, the son of Police Officer Edward M. Jelich and Mrs. Jelich, was born on Monday, October 4, at the Community Hospital.

Lt. John Campbell Arrives

Lt. (sr. gr.) John Campbell, Navy Air Corps, accompanied by Mrs. Campbell and five-months-old Sally Elizabeth, arrived from Norfolk, Virginia, late Wednesday night. Lt. Campbell will have a week's visit with his parents. Mr. and Mrs. Argyll Campbell before reporting back to the Atlantic coast for overseas duty. Mrs. Campbell and Sally plan to make their home for the present at Pebble Beach with Mrs. Campbell's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Walker.

Service Men to Entertain Hostesses At U.S.O. Birthday

The Carmel USO, which in the past two years has entertained more than 50,000 servicemen, will begin its third year Sunday, October 17 with a novel program in which Fort Ord soldiers will reverse the usual procedure by playing hosts to the USO committee and Carmel citizens who have entertained them in the past.

Soldiers who will wear the angelic halos and sit in the "angel's roost," sacred to civilians, will be cooks and bakers from Fort Ord who will have donated their time to make coffee and doughnuts for their guests.

Some of the finest talent available at the fort will appear on the program and other servicemen will be on hand to serve the visitors and act as guides. On the same day ceremonies will be held dedicating the new USO wing built to take care of the ever increasing number of visiting servicemen.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

Reds Trounce Grays

A number of energetic students showed up to cheer their favorite color team to victory when the Reds and Grays of Carmel High met on the high school field Saturday. The Reds had the first string backfield and the second string line. The Grays had the second string backfield with the first string line.

The Reds won the game by a score of 22-6, although a terrific fight was put up by the Gray team.

Most of the yardage was made by run plays and line plunges.

South American Exhibit

Carmel High's art teacher, Miss Burtis, has recently put up two very colorful art exhibits, one in the mail office, and one in the library. They are made up of the handwork of a small South American colony living in this country.

Among the articles shown are pictures of various people of the South American countries, maps of South America with all the products listed, beautiful hand-made blankets, and stencilled maracas.

Sylvia Thorn has been making the labels for the exhibit, and altogether it is very interesting to see. —Diana Daniells.

Senior Elections

Thursday, September 31, the Senior Class met, and had its first and most important meeting of the year.

Senior officers elected were: president, Ann McElroy; vice president, Roy Parsons and secretary-treasurer, Carla Lepori.

Last year the matter of Student Recreation outside of school hours was brought up, and Friday it was brought to a conclusion by appointing a committee of two to go up before the City Council to ask for city cooperation toward the student recreation. —Lillis Harris.

G. A. A. News

Any girl coming out for G.A.A. (Girls Athletic Association) games at noon must be at least a ninth grader.

The G.A.A. takes care of the noon recreation. They will have meetings every other Friday.

New officers have been elected for the G.A.A. Joan Janda is the new president; Pamela Dormody, vice president, and Ann Hodgson, secretary-treasurer. —Ann Casati.

Class Officers

At the sophomore class meeting held October 4, 1943, the following students were elected to the class offices:

President, Beva Pilling; vice president, Janet Strasburger; secretary, Barbara Timmins; Miss Beeson was reelected class advisor. —June Quinn.

Legislature Meeting

At a meeting of the Legislature last Tuesday, amendments to the by-laws of the Student Court were presented and accepted.

Jack Fremont and Russell Bohlke gave a report of their investigation into the matter of Student Body cards. The Legislature voted to accept the new design of the cards. —Walter Warren.

Freshman Officers

The Freshman held their first meeting and elected officers last Friday. Those who were elected were:

President, Victor Harber; vice president, Petty Brown; secretary, Pat Post; treasurer, Jim Snavely; sergeant at arms, Henry Moltini.

The class sponsor has not yet been named. —Betty Fonteneau.

Sandy Hook Defends

A special session of Student Court was held last Monday with Judge Walter Warren presiding. Two cases came up for trial. Sandy Hook acted as attorney for prisoner at the bar, which created quite a sensation. After much discussion the Court arrived at the decision of guilty, but he was given a suspended sentence. —Betty Fonteneau.

Stamp and Bond Sales

In three weeks the students of C.H.S. in a bond campaign bought $873 worth of stamps and bonds.

The Sophs started off the first week in the lead and continued the good work to win by buying $255.90 in stamps and bonds. The 8th grade followed closely with $238.95, and the Seniors, Juniors and 9th grade trailed in that order. The campaign was run by Joan Janda with two assistants, JoAnn Thorn and Andrea Del Monte. The girls did a good job and so did the rest of the students.

Stamp and bond sales will continue through the year and the students hope to make even a better record. —Ann Hodgson.

Junior Meeting

"Botts for president." "Botts for vice-president." "Botts for secretary."

This was heard in room 4 last Tuesday in the orderly meeting held by the Juniors. After ten minutes of coming to order the meeting, led by Frank Gambee, started to nominate and vote. The result of this was, for president, Frank Gambee; for vice-president, Milton Thompson, and for secretary, Andrea Del Monte. We decided that Andrea would take care of the money and discussed the dance the Juniors are giving for the Seniors. —Diana Daniells.

CUPERTINO GUEST

Moon," all in English; and "Eri Tu" by Verdi, in Italian.

His Russian songs in costume were the hit of the afternoon, and were superbly done with the verve and fire which only a Russian knows how to express in his native tongue and music.

The singer's great versatility was shown in his noteworthy rendition of Verdi's "Eri Tu," and his voice is one that would be admirably suited to operatic as well as concert singing.

Nicolai Alexander was born in Los Angeles of Russian parents, and was adjudged the winner recently in a statewide contest for singers.

Gladys Steele, a well-beloved San Francisco artist and coach, deserves great praise for her masterful support of both of the singers.

We hope that both Mr. Alexander and Miss Steele will be with us soon again, and in a recital of their own.

Three Words Worth 50% of His Salary!

EUGENE COLLEARY is short on words—but lo-o-ng on action!

A machinist at Brewster Aeronautical, he helps roll out the dive-bombers and fighters which are going to help us bat the cars off the Axis.

His vital job might be considered enough of a contribution to America's war effort . . . but not by Colleary! He reasoned that he could do twice as much damage to the dictators by helping to pay for the planes—through War Bonds.

So he signed half of his salary over to War Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan!

He covers the matter with three words:

"I'm an American," he says. And that's that!

FIGURE IT OUT FOR YOURSELF: Are you lending ALL you can?

Weren't there a few more dollars in your last pay envelope that could have gone into War Bonds—but didn't? Get out your pencil right now, and see if you can't boost the percentage you're putting aside for Uncle Sam—and yourself!

You've done your bit—now do your best!

Churches . . .

ALL SAINTS' CHURCH

Next Sunday at 8:00 a.m. Service of the Holy Communion. At 9:30 a.m. the Church School with classes for young people of all ages. At 11:00 a.m. the service of Morning Prayer with Sermon message by the Rector, Rev. C. J. Hulsewe. Offertory anthem: "All People that on Earth Do Dwell"—William Kethe (1561). The full vested choir will participate in this service and lead in the singing of the hymns you love to sing. Visitors to Carmel are especially invited to come and worship at All Saints', a House of Prayer for All People. Special Intercessions for the men and women in the services of our country at the 11:00 a.m. service.

CHURCH OF THE WAYFARER

"The Power of Prayer" will be the sermon theme next Sunday morning at the Church of the Wayfarer, Dr. James E. Crowther, preacher. Captain Eddie Rickenbacker tells how men will pray in time of crisis. But is prayer only for emergency—part of a first-aid kit? Or is true prayer as natural as hunger? Elinor Smith as guest organist will play the following selections: "Chanson Triste," Tchaikowsky; "Andantino," Scharwenka; "Prelude," Chopin; "Legend," Tchaikowsky; "Andante," Mattei. The Church School begins at 9:45, the Church Service at 11:00. Visitors are cordially invited.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

"Are Sin, Disease and Death Real?" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon, Sunday, October 10, in all branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts. The Golden Text will be: "I will restore health unto thee, and I will heal thee of thy wounds, saith the Lord." (Jer. 30: 17).

Other Bible citations will include: "Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits: Who forgiveth all thine iniquities; Who healeth all thy diseases;" (Ps. 103:2, 3).

The Lesson-Sermon will also include the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "It breaks the dream of disease to understand that sickness is formed by the human mind, not by matter nor by the divine Mind . . . The remedy is Truth, not matter—the truth that disease is unreal." (pp. 396, 229).

"Like Mission To Moscow"

Mrs. Mays' family has also been connected—is protected by guards and police dogs because of the valuable El Greco, Van Gogh and Cezanne canvases there.

The fact that Mrs. Mays' family has been associated with art as connoisseurs is interesting. It is even more interesting that the family of her nationally known artist husband has similarly been connected with the collecting of art treasures.

According to "Life" for September 20, the Cleveland Museum's greatest benefactor is a relative of Paul Mays—John Long Severance, who spent all his life and more than $5,000,000 of his fortune buying some of the world's greatest treasures for this museum. This article is handsomely illustrated in color and features as well as paintings of his medieval collection considered one of the best in the country.

Also reproduced are Francois Drouais' "La Marquise d'Aiguirandes" and Van Dyck's "Sir Thomas Hamner" which portraits are among the Severance gifts. Van Dyck because of such court paintings, was knighted by King Charles I, given a yearly pension of $1,000 and called "Painter in Ordinary of the King."

"Little Women" Obscene, New Law Assumes

men is not obscene!
This is the way it works. Note the capitals (which are ours) because when we pick them up again a few paragraphs later they will tell the story of how Libby Niles can be hauled into court to prove Little Women is not obscene.
"Section 879: It shall be unlawful for any PERSON, firm or corporation to transport for the purpose of sale, sell, offer for sale, edit, publish, exhibit, CIRCULATE, disseminate, or have in possession for sale or GRATUITOUS DISTRIBUTION, expose for sale, or to distribute any magazine, periodical, paper, article, BOOK, pamphlet, or other publication or material which is not admissible to the United States mails, or (not and — Ed.) which contains any indecent, obscene, or immoral matter, or other matter which tends to debase or corrupt morals.
"Section 880: PROOF THAT ANY SUCH magazine, periodical or OTHER PUBLICATION DOES NOT HAVE PRINTED THERE-

IN, A STATEMENT, IN SUBSTANCE, that said magazine, periodical, or other PUBLICATION IS ADMITTED TO THE UNITED MAILS SHALL BE DEEMED PRIMA FACIE EVIDENCE THAT SUCH PUBLICATION IS NOT ADMISSABLE TO THE UNITED STATES MAILS."
No book has printed in it that it has been granted second class mailing privileges because publishers of books do not apply for second class mailing privileges since they do not need nor want them. Second class mail is not the most economical means of transporting books. Yet, according to the ordinance, the assumption is that the publishers have applied for the second class mailing privileges and they have been denied on grounds of obscenity.
So Little Women is assumed by Carmel law to be obscene. Libby Niles is a person. She circulates Little Women, so Libby Niles can be hauled into court and must prove that Little Women is not obscene.
School books do not have a notice in them stating that they have second class mailing privileges, so Hugh Comstock, president of the school board, can be hauled into court to prove that the school texts used in high school and Sunset classes are not obscene.
By the same token, the Reverend James Crowther can be hauled into court to prove that the hymn books he passes out in church are not obscene.
You are amused? How about that copy of Gardening for Fun that Aunt Jane sent you for your birthday and you lent to the Jamisons next door so they could read up on the care and nurture of dahlias? Look inside the cover. Does it have a notice that it has second class mailing privileges?

Oh, you didn't know that you were illegally circulating a publication that is assumed to be obscene until you can prove that it is not?
Ignorance of the law is no excuse.

FIVE TROOPS NOW

There are five Girl Scout troops in Carmel, with others forming. Miss Audrey Walton is chairman of the Carmel District. The other members of the Carmel district committee are: Mrs. Peter Ferrante, Mrs. Talbert Josselyn and Mrs. Grace Howden.
Already there are 450 Girl Scouts on the Monterey Peninsula. At a most impressive investiture ceremony on Wednesday afternoon at the Scout house in Monterey, Mrs. John Gratiot, commissioner for the Monterey Peninsula, expressed pleasure in the enthusiasm being shown in this great work by the large group of leaders and committee workers, most of whom were present at this meeting. A delicious tea was served by Troop No. 3.

Brig. General Doe Receives Service Cross

ence in the most forward areas and his disregard of personal danger were largely responsible for the high morale of his troops and the successful outcome of their operations."
Brigadier General and Mrs. Doe with their small daughter, Camilla, established their home in Carmel three years ago, purchasing the house at Carmelo and 14th streets which is now bright with fuchsia hanging baskets of Mrs. Doe's nurturing. It is a year and a half since Brigadier General Doe departed for service in the South Pacific, leaving a wide circle of friends hereabouts.
Mrs. Doe's mother, Mrs. Camilla B. Bird, arrived on October 3 from Texas to celebrate simultaneous birthdays with her granddaughter namesake—her 74th and Camilla, Jr.'s, 10th. Her visit has been made still more happy by the word of new honors won by her distinguished son-in-law.
